FROM THE DESK OF THE VICE CHANCELLOR

Prof. Srikrishna Deva Rao
Vice Chancellor
National Law University Delhi

National Law University Delhi has played a vital role and has had a significant influence in transforming legal education in India since its establishment. However, access to quality legal education in India is still limited, and we at NLU Delhi are working towards making legal education more accessible, diverse, equitable and inclusive. We aim to shape students as socially conscious, emotionally intelligent and empathetic lawyers and work towards community service, nation building and strengthening democracy, and provide access to justice to all. The University was established to impart quality legal education, and through that produce technically competent and socially relevant lawyers, who in addition to the pursuit of justice in all its manifestations, also meaningfully contributed to the development of our nation.

The numerous recognitions that NLUD has received in the short course of its existence, including being ranked second all India for three successive years by the National Institute Ranking Framework (NIRF), grant of Category I autonomy status by the University Grants Commission (UGC) and the receipt of NAAC accreditation Grade A institution, stand testament to the successful attainment of these aims. Much credit for it goes to our meritorious students who have demonstrated extraordinary levels of dedication, commitment and zeal in the pursuit for excellence. NLUD adopts a global curriculum which is interdisciplinary, inter-professional and international in its outlook.

The multidisciplinary, versatile and experiential learning and training that students receive as part of their education at NLUD, prepares them to confidently engage with the ever-increasing higher levels of volatility, uncertainty, complexity and ambiguity of social life and regulatory environments.

The curriculum and pedagogy at NLUD are, therefore, consciously designed to prepare our students to think critically, understand profoundly, serve selflessly and connect broadly. Our curriculum has gained immensely from the interactions and feedback received from various stakeholders including the industry.

This has in turn enabled us to fine tune our programmes and pedagogy, and introduce new courses on contemporary, societal and cutting-edge developments.

The Newsletter showcases the academic events organised by the University during January to June even by breaking the hurdles faced by academic community during the COVID 2019 outbreak. The University students showed a remarkable performance in various international and national rounds of mooting events.

The period is also witnessed a remarkable selection of Ms. Anupriya as Rhodes Scholar for 2021. Joint interdisciplinary course with IISc Bengaluru on scholarly publications and copyright is also a remarkable stone for the University. I congratulate team NLUD for the achievements and programmes organised and obviously the team efforts of faculty and staff. I welcome you all to join academic endeavour of the National Law University through collaborating in academics and socio-legal development proposals in future.
